

FRENCH PREMIER QUILTS: DISMAY AT WASHINGTON

NELSON MAN CHARGED WITH BEING LEADER OF BOOZE TRAFFIC

John F. Kennedy Taken Into Custody Yesterday Afternoon.

Another arrest in the cleanup of bootleg resorts and agents in the vicinity of Dixon, occurred late yesterday afternoon when Deputy Sheriff John F. Kennedy of Nelson was taken into custody on charges of transporting, possessing, selling and delivering liquor. The deputy was taken before Justice J. O. Shanley where he was held on bonds of $1,000, which were furnished by his attorney. His case was continued for hearing until Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock.

Two efforts were made late Tuesday night to arrest Kennedy and special officers who were engaged in the cleanup by State's Attorney Mark C. Keller went to the Kennedy restaurant in Nelson, but failed to find him. It was later learned that he was visiting in Dixon and did not return home until a late hour.

Called "Ring Leader."
It is alleged Kennedy has been the main source of supply to many of the bootlegging resorts east of the city. For several months he has operated a restaurant in the Chicago & Northwestern railway yards at Nelson. He was formerly an engineer on the switch engine in this city.

Leonard Woodruff, who was arrested yesterday morning by members of the police department for possessing and selling liquor, was unable to furnish bonds for his appearance Thursday of next week, in the amount of $300 and was sent to the county jail. Woodruff and his wife operate the cement hotel, which has been the scene of previous raids.

Sheriff Calls for Star.
Sheriff Schoenholtz in explaining Kennedy's connection with his office stated this morning that the Nelson man had been made a deputy at his own request for the sole purpose of giving him the right to carry a gun. Kennedy was handling a large amount of money, the sheriff stated, and for the protection of this money he asked Mr. Schoenholtz to be made a deputy in order that he might carry a revolver. The sheriff complied with his request, but this morning he called for Mr. Kennedy's star pending the outcome of the case.

ATHLETICS WON FROM STERLING HERE LAST EVE

Locals Had No Difficulty in Taking Contest.

The Dixon Athletics defeated the Sterling A. A. basketball team in one of the best played games of the season last evening at the Knights of Columbus hall by a score of 22 to 13. The visitors showed by their playing that they have a very strong organization, but they were unable to hold the A. C.'s.

The attendance at last evening's game was very encouraging and the fans showed by their numbers, that they preferred seeing the A. C.'s in action at home, rather than playing out of the city for the remainder of the season. The crowd was the best that has turned out this season and a very enthusiastic aggregation accompanied the visiting quintet. The lineup:

Dixon A. C.'s—Hess, Poole, Weiner and Green, forwards; Hintz, center; Allen and Vaughan, guards.

Sterling A. A.—R. Gehhardt and Lund, forwards; Williams, center; T. Gehhardt and Albertson, guards. Referee: Bowers, Dixon.

CHICAGO DIVER NOW SEARCHING FOR BODY OF ISABELLE KEIFER

Her Playmate's Body Recovered Late Yesterday Afternoon.

A Chicago diver has been at work all day in the water of Kishwaukee river at Kingston searching for the body of little Isabelle Keifer, who was drowned Saturday afternoon with her playmate, Roger Brown, whose body was recovered from the stream at 2:45 o'clock yesterday afternoon. All night long workers kept the river free from ice, tents along the banks of the stream furnishing shelter for the relays of men, and in which women served them hot coffee, etc.

The body of Roger, aged 6, was found about three hours after one of little Isabelle's mittens had been brought up on a grappling hook, but the boy's remains were not taken from the river under the railroad bridge, where the children were last seen and where the girl's pet dog maintained his vigil. It was found lodged against a wire fence stretched into the stream half a mile below the railroad bridge.

DISTRICT OFFICERS OF Y. M. C. A. HEARD OF RETIREMENT FUND

An Interesting Conference Was Held in Dixon Wednesday P. M.

Several prominent Y. M. C. A. secretaries of Northern Illinois gathered here in conference Wednesday afternoon at the local association building and discussed the Y. M. C. A. retirement fund.

Those present were: General Secretary J. E. Nyhan of Moline, who is also state supervisor of the fund; General Secretary W. C. Davies of Sterling; Secretary Whistler of the Freeport Association.

Also present at the conference in addition to Secretary Elmer Rice of the local association, were several members of the local Y. M. C. A. board. The purpose of the conference was to acquaint the local men with the detail of the retirement fund.

Half of Fund Raised
The retirement fund has been placed at $4,000,000 for the entire United States. $2,000,000 of this proposed fund has already been raised by Dr. John R. Mott of New York City.

Included in this amount raised by Dr. Mott is $750,000 donated by Laura Spelman Rockefeller Memorial, provided the entire amount necessary for the fund is pledged by Dec. 31, 1922. Under the same conditions John D. Rockefeller, Jr., pledged $250,000.

Illinois' quota has been placed at $250,000. Dixon's quota will be placed at $4000, to spread over a period of four years.

The main features of the fund are provisions for old age pension; partial support in case of disability and provision in case of death. All employed officials of associations in the United States will be benefited by the fund. In Illinois there are 275 employed officials at the Dixon association.

What Plan Will Do
This is what the retirement fund will do:

It provides that when a participating employed officer is 60 years of age may retire from the work and do anything he wants and is able to do, so long as he ceases to be an employed officer of a Y. M. C. A. Further, that he will receive annuities for the rest of his life from the treasurer of the retirement fund, in monthly payments, that approximate 1 1/2 per cent of his average salary for the last ten years of his association service multiplied by the aggregate number of years he has served. This is equivalent to half-pay, if he has had 33 years of service to his credit.

This gives an employed officer a sense of security, reduces restlessness removes the "poor house worry" helps to hold him steady at a great task, weakens the lure of the call of the business world, and increases his efficiency.

The retirement fund plan makes provision for the participating employed officer after five years of service who has to retire due to permanent disability. It does this regardless of his age.

In case of death previous to retirement, all that the employed officer has paid into the fund, with interest compounded at 4 per cent, is returned to his beneficiary.

The minimum pension will be $900, and upwards, of course, in point of service.

The conference proved very interesting and the local men are highly pleased with the results.

WHO KILLED MIRIAM VANE?

The STEP on the STAIRS by ISABEL OSTRANDER

She was an artist—beautiful—but mocking and mysterious. Her portraits were called caricatures because of their subtle cruelty. One night a shot was heard. A minute later the beautiful artist was found dead in her Greenwich Village studio. Before her was an unfinished portrait.

This gripping tale of mystery is by Isabel Ostrander, acknowledged to be the greatest writer of detective stories in America today.

Carefully and logically the clues are developed, the suspense grows more tense and in the last chapter Detective Barry is able to point to the murderer.

"The Step on the Stairs" is a masterpiece of mystery fiction.

PEACE DOLLARS BRING WORRIES TO THE BANKER

Won't Stack; Treasury Dept. Has Recalled Them.

The new peace dollar is misnamed and will have to be withdrawn from circulation and remodeled, it is said at the Treasury in Washington. The sculptor, Anthony Francisco, placed his monogram—"AF" beneath the face of Liberty, which is modeled from that of his wife. Initials on money are taboo, it is stated.

The bankers throughout the country have filed serious objections with the treasury officials, stating that the new dollar will not stack.

But one of the banks in Dixon, the Dixon Trust & Savings Bank, have had any of the dollars. This institution has disposed of about $25 worth of the dollars, having but a few left.

If the issue is withdrawn those already in circulation may go at a premium and collectors will fight for them. The dollars were minted in a hurry and that largely accounts for the error in minting.

CRIPPLED U. S. TRANSPORT IS MOVING SLOWLY

Gale Failed to Stop Ship Bringing U. S. Fighters.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Washington, Jan. 12.—A radiogram from the transport Crook received here at 8:30 a. m. today said the crippled ship was making favorable headway. "The gale reached the transport last night," the message said, "but did not cause it to slow up perceptibly."

The transport's position was given as 365 miles east of New York.

Concern of the War Department for the safety of the transport led to the sending of the transport St. MIHEL from New York yesterday afternoon toward the position indicated by a wireless message from the Crook that she was disabled. Several ocean liners were said to be near the Crook, which was then about 400 miles from New York and approximately south of Halifax.

When she started from Europe, the Crook had a full cargo on board and carried, in addition to her crew of 150 seamen, 13 officers and 940 men from the army of occupation in Germany. In her hold there were many bodies of American soldiers who fell on European battlefields.

ACCOMPLISHMENTS OF ARMS CONFERENCE IN JEOPARDY AS RESULT

Tenders Resignation After Address to Deputies.

BRIAND QUILTS

Paris, Jan. 12.—(By the Associated Press.)—Premier Briand submitted his resignation to President Millerand at the Elysee palace today after making a lengthy statement before the Chamber of Deputies, justifying his attitude at the Cannes conference.

M. Briand's intention to resign was announced to the Chamber at the close of his hour's speech. The announcement came as an entire surprise as he had apparently won the sympathy of the chamber. His colleagues of the cabinet were filled with amazement at his sudden determination.

Premier Briand put the Anglo-French pact, the question of postponement of German reparations payments and French participation in the Genoa conference squarely up to the Chamber of Deputies this afternoon, telling the deputies in the bluntest terms to take them or leave them.

The Premier first presented the question of the British pact. "You have been complaining for three years," he said, "of not being called upon to share in shaping French policies. I am bringing you what you have been demanding for three years, and it is up to you to say whether you want it or not."

"Take It or Leave It."
Premier Briand in the course of his speech, said the United States had agreed to participate in the Genoa conference.

"As far as I am concerned," he continued, "I am merely making these explanations to you and do not ask your approval or refusal. Here is France's security. Take it or leave it."

The Premier next turned to the subject of the Genoa conference. "It is inadmissible," he said, "that France should be absent from this conference, which is purely financial and economical, especially when such a powerful financial and economic state as the United States, without whose cooperation work is impossible, has agreed to participate."

"Do you wish France not to be represented there?" he asked. "If so, say so. I for my part, wish France to take part."

Premier Briand said the reparations commission had agreed to grant a moratorium for Germany on her reparations payments.

M. Briand, after making his announcement left the chamber alone. The members of the cabinet followed as soon as they had recovered from their surprise.

Groups of deputies and government officials speedily gathered in excited discussion of the seriousness of the situation, seeking a way out of the difficulty.

Constitution
at Washington

Washington, Jan. 12.—(By the Associated Press.)—The resignation of Premier Briand as premier of France was received with almost bombshell effect in arms conference circles. The action being considered likely to have a great effect on decisions already reached or about to be reached.

The belief also was expressed in conference circles that the overturn of the Briand ministry would greatly affect the Genoa economic conference in which American participation had been invited and also on the present conversations at Cannes.

Regarded as Grave.
Conference officials declared that as customary during a cabinet crisis in France, the resigning cabinet would remain in power for continuing the administrative work of the government and in the same way M. Sarraut would remain in Washington and would continue to attend the work of the conference but would not feel entitled to make any definite decisions or to pledge the action of France on any question until the new cabinet is appointed.

Secretary Hughes announced officially shortly after noon today that the fact of Premier Briand's resignation to the heads of several of the armament delegation who were in conference with him at the time. The news was received with expressions of dismay.

"It is a very grave event," said the head of one delegation.

The nude body of the woman was found lying on a dining table on a pad of blankets and pillows, while that of her father-in-law was found crumpled in a basement room.

AMBOY MAN RELATES EXPERIENCES HE HAD AS RAILROAD BUILDER

from Winnebago into South Dakota.

At one point in South Dakota the community offered a bonus of $10,000 if the proposed road would be continued to that town and ready for operation into that town on or before December 31, of the following year.

On Dec. 31, late in the day, Mr. Egan had his road within two miles of the town in question, but ran out of rails. He appealed to the management but could get no satisfaction from that source. The weather was bad. It was impossible to move much on account of the heavy snows. Mr. Egan began to do some deep thinking. At last he had an idea. He would ask for an extension of time. He appeared before the committee of the town and made a strong plea for more time, but the committee refused to hear him, saying that a contract was a contract and all must abide by said contract.

"Put One Over" On Town.

Then another idea came to Mr. Egan and he had to work fast for the day was drawing to a close. The idea was this: He would go back some distance on the line and tear up two miles of newly laid track and bring the rails forward to continue the two miles into the town. He did this and pulled in under the wire just as the day was closing winning his $10,000 bonus. He had fulfilled his contract.

He told about spending considerable time in New Mexico and of making one trip across the desert that took his party four months. He said he made the same trip later by rail in four hours.

The address was highly appreciated by all those who took the opportunity to hear Mr. Egan, who is one of Amboy's most prominent citizens and one of Lee county most aggressive farmers.

BROTHER OF MINE.

Brother of Mine, the way is long
 Give me your heart and your comrades hand

Let us join in a comrades song,
 And walk as one to the sunset land;
 The hill is steep and the winds may moan—

It's a weary way if we walk alone.
 Brother of Mine, the way grows bright

When we breast the pull and the climb together,
 The sun by day and the stars by night
 Glean for us through the smiting weather;

Sorrow is lost in the morning grace
 That beams on a comrades' loving face.

Brother of Mine, the night comes fast,
 The roses fade on the slopes of spring;

The rainbow dies in the mist at last,
 And silence falls on the lips that sing:
 Let's hold hands through the waning day—

Only Comrades can keep the way!

GRADE PARENT-TEACHERS ASSOCIATION IN MEETING—

The Grade Parent-Teachers Association held an excellent meeting Wednesday afternoon in the Assembly room of the Central school. Music was furnished by the eighth grade of the Central school, the music being a selection from the opera "Ermine" and an arrangement of "Annie Laurie." Miss Guernsey, supervisor of art in the Dixon schools, spoke on "Fostering an Appreciation of Art in School Children," emphasizing the value of teaching a love of nature, of color and of form. She also dwelt on the value of putting before our children the beautiful sculpture and pictures. Miss Guernsey is a woman of no small ability, being a graduate of the Art Institute, and having exhibited there.

Miss Guernsey's talk was followed by a very delightful one by Miss Stein of Chicago, who, as representative of the Victor Talking Machine Co. addressed the association "The Use of the Victrola in the School Room." Miss Stein, in a charming manner demonstrated the use of the Victrola from the kindergarten to high school. The teaching of rhythm and freedom of motion, fostering an appreciation of Indian and negro music, as typically American, and music as an aid in teaching history, were all brought out by the speaker in a most instructive manner.

MISSIONARY SOCIETY HAD MEETING TUESDAY—

The Missionary society of Grace U. E. church held an exceptionally interesting meeting Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Edna Cheney.

About fifty members and visitors attended the meeting.

The committee in charge, composed of Mrs. Cheney and her daughter, Mrs. Bush, Mrs. F. W. Beckingham and Mrs. Archie Klein had prepared an excellent program. The meeting opened with a hymn, followed by an instrumental number by Mrs. Wilson White.

Mrs. Webster then read the Scripture and Mrs. Decker offered prayer. Rev. C. G. Unangst presented the lesson topic, "Barriers Between Neighbors," in a complete manner, presenting the problems to be met in dealing with the foreign and city population in Home Missionary work.

Leaflets which were much enjoyed were read by Mrs. Bush and Miss Lona Beckingham.

Miss Rilla Webster delighted all with a reading, "Saved for Service."

Miss Florabelle Cheney rendered a beautiful solo, "What Did It Mean," accompanied by Mrs. O. E. Strook at the piano.

Victrola music was also greatly enjoyed.

The business session was then in order, after which a social time and the serving of tempting refreshments by the hostesses followed; thus closing an enjoyable afternoon.

"The time for turning over the new leaf is at hand, the book of the old year is finished. The book of the new year with its white pages is spread before us. Let us pause in prayerful meditation on the days that are gone that we may write to better purpose on the pages of the days that are to come. Let us face the new year with definite plan. The Missionary society would help you in your meditation and in your resolution."

"Tired! Well, what of that? Didn't thou fancy life was spent on beds of ease.

Fluttering the rose leaves scattered by the breeze?

Come! rouse thee, work while it is called today

Face to the front along the King's Highway."

MARVELS OF 1822

Would you rather have lived 100 years ago than now? Would you like to exchange places with your great-grandfather—live in the easy-going days of 1822 instead of the madhouse hustle of 1922?

Turn the clock back a century.
The people of 1822 were astonished by revolutionary changes in the way of doing things.

After a great deal of patient argument by drummers, sugar manufacturers decided to take a long chance.
They actually installed the first steam engines used in the sugar industry of Louisiana.

Thomas Skidmore of New York, in 1822 caused much talk by inventing and using the first tubes made out of rubber.

In Philadelphia, an enterprising iron maker revolutionized waterworks systems by casting the first cast iron conduit pipes.

Inventors were busy in those days.
The principal patented inventions of 1822 were the first artificial teeth, the first American isinglass, the first machine for making fence pickets.

The latter invention worried the carpenters. They saw nothing but gloom in the future.

Christopher Cornelius of Philadelphia got cheers from sailors in 1822 by inventing a lighthouse lamp to burn hard by the solar principle. Now we have electric beacons of 1,000-000,000 candlepower.

Texas' first cotton was grown in 1822 by Colonel Jared E. Groce, in the bottoms of the Brazos de Dios.

Congress made Florida a territory and held forth the alluring hope that it might some day become a state.

The navy won much renown by capturing and destroying 20 pirate ships off the coast of Cuba.

Gaudy dresses became possible for even the humblest, in 1822, when Messrs. Mason and Baldwin made the first engraved cylinders for printing fancy designs on calico.

All around, you'll agree, 1822 was a dull year, compared with 1922. The people of 2022 will think the same of 1922.

LIFE

At Valladolid, Spain, scientists in the official agricultural college took one grain of wheat.

It sprouted into 12 shoots. These were cut and transplanted, and the process repeated several times.

The harvest was 322,000 grains of wheat, all grown in a year from the one original grain.

There is no real mystery in the universe except life.

BUSINESS FAILURES

R. G. Dunn & Co., credit investigators, announce that American business failures in 1921 totaled 19,652.
That is a big death list. But it shouldn't scare any one into the cyclone cellar.

In 1915 there were 20,596 failures.
Nearly 2,000,000 firms were doing business in America in 1921. Failures were only about 1 in 100.

A cyclone is not alarming when it leaves 99 trees standing for every one it tears down in the forest.

More thought to businesses that don't fail. Less thought to those that do.

BUNK

A New York financial journal says in a headline: "Bonus steal now threatens U. S. Treasury. It is price of winning the congressional elections of 1922."

Tommyrot! Adjusted compensation for war veterans, often mis-called a bonus, is not a political matter. Nor is it a "steal." It's a matter of plain decency and justice.

You never see headlines in financial journals referring to the airplane steal, the merchant marine steal or the munitions-profitsteering steal. The financial journals know which side their bread is buttered on.

Would you say they tried to submarine the new treaty?

it takes them so long to reach 25.

BRINGING UP FATHER

Congress used 13,862,800 words last session. Placed end to end they would reach around the world 40 times and back to where they started.

Who killed beautiful Miriam Vane in her Greenwich Village studio? Israel Ostrander's story begins in The Telegraph, Monday, January 16, 715

They never would have got through had Buskins not handed a policemen-kite a card from the Fairy Queen.

The next place that Buskins took the Twins to in the magic apple-tree elevator was in the Land of Lost Kites.

Nick moved the funny old iron brake fastened to the side of the little rickety wooden car when Buskins told him and up they shot still higher above the trees, hills and valleys, right into the blue, blue sky.

At last they stopped and Buskins said: "Here we are! I hope we're in time for the trial." And he looked at his watch.

"Trial?" exclaimed Nick. "What's that?"

"It's when something is to be decided," answered the fairyman. "And the thing to be decided is usually whose fault something is."

"But land alive! That's too hard for you to understand. Come along and I'll tell you what I mean."

"The Fairy Queen is to be here to do the deciding. It's all about the kites who come here. They are always quarreling and always in trouble."

They started down a remarkable road with fields of lovely green on each side.

Here and there were houses where the kite people lived who had come to make their home in this beautiful sky country.

And trees! There were oodles of trees, my dears, for where else would bird kites stay.

After while they arrived at a village and it was plain to see from the crowd of kites that something unusual was going on.

Buskins and the Twins made their way to the courthouse and here the crowd was thickest of all. They never would have got through had Buskins not handed a policeman-kite a card from the Fairy Queen.

Instantly the policeman-kite made a path, and the visitors went up the steps and in through the door.

There they could see the Fairy Queen herself sitting in state.

Before her were two disheveled kites who looked as if they had been fighting.

BABY PARALYSIS

Common Sense Ways to Keep Well

Almost every year there are epidemics of infantile paralysis.

Like all other infective diseases, infantile paralysis will only be stamped out when the chain of infection between those carrying the germs and well members of the community is broken.

The disease is probably caused by a very minute organism found in the nasal, mouth and bowel discharges of those who have the disease or are carriers of the germ without themselves suffering any ailment.

The millennium will no doubt bring absolute control of promiscuous spitting. It will also wipe out the common drinking cup and bring rigid cleanliness of glasses and utensils at soda fountains. But until that day comes, we must make our little efforts at prophylaxis or prevention.

We can at least wipe out flies, roaches and other vermin which do more than their share in spreading infection. Street and home dust bear a definite relation to the spread of many infections and it is not unreasonable to presume that they may be a factor in the dissemination of infantile paralysis.

All garbage and waste should be carefully and properly cared for and collected at regular and frequent intervals. Guard all food supplies, especially milk and perishable products.
Assemblies of children in infected localities should be discouraged, and prevented.

CONFESSIONS OF A MOVIE STAR

Chapter LXX—WHAT WILL CISSY THINK OF ME NOW?

If my sight were gone or my face disfigured, my career as a movie star was ended. Motherdear knew that as well as I, but neither of us put the thought into words.

Even to Motherdear the specialist had not been reassuring. For a long time the bulletin given to the reporters were not cheerful. Every day Motherdear had to talk to them.

The sensational nature of the accident had interested my old fans and made thousands of new ones.

My picture as I went down before the leopard was reeled off every evening in thousands of cities. In spite of that Nandy, when he came to see me, was depressed.

I refused to see Cissy while my head was tied up.

He had come more than once for an answer to his proposal. I hadn't decided what it would be.

As long as we were not engaged Cissy had no rights. I didn't want to have him bothering me around while my head looked like a laundry bag.

"It certainly would jar him some,"
I told Motherdear.

"He thinks of wonderful things to do for you, May," she reminded me.
"You ought to be a little bit appreciative."

Cissy was most kind. He had sent me flowers which I couldn't see;
books which I couldn't read; candy which I couldn't eat.

He had made phone calls which I couldn't answer because one corner of my mouth had been, out open by the swipe of Gairee's big paw.

Cissy was devoted. I grew almost tender toward him.

I began to look upon myself as a most fortunate little girl. I did not believe in marriage as a basis of permanent happiness but I did believe in it as an institution which could be managed quite satisfactorily on strictly business principles.

I believed in the home as a source of contentment. And I thought myself a very fortunate girl for if I were too marred up to remain in the movies, there was Cissy Sheldon anxious to have me fall back upon him for the rest of my days.

I wanted to talk to Cissy. I spent half of one morning deciding to have Motherdear phone him to come that afternoon, and then a most unfortunate doubt popped into my mind:

What would it mean to Cyrus Sheldon if my face were deeply scarred?

My eyes no longer hurt me but I could not open them. The scratches on my brow I never had seen. I hadn't an inkling, from my own feelings, whether I would have to give up the movies or not.

And after all, that was not the big question of my life.

My acting was for but a few years.
My marriage was for life.

I had supposed that I had only to choose one career—or both.

I now perceived that the privilege of choice had been taken from me.
I remembered how Cissy had scrapped his injured car.

He would have near him—only—perfect things!

Berton Braley's Daily Poem

IGNORANCE

What do you know of the lives of toilers

If you've never worked in the dust
and grime,

If you've never sweated at blazing boilers

Or dug in the caisson's ooze and slime?

Do you know the ache of the straining sinew?

The weary drag of the creeping days Which saps the strength and the spirit in you?

Oh, what do you know of the toilers' ways?

Have you known the murk of the drifts and tunnels

Where men dig ore for your gold and steel?

Have you fought the seas as they sweep the gun'ales

When the deck's aslant and the mastheads reel?

Have you felt the scorch when the melting-kettle

With white-hot iron is all ablaze?

Have you puddled and worked with the seething metal?

Then what do you know of the toilers' ways?

You sit in your club 'and 'speak of labor

As "blind and grasping, and full of greed!"

But what do you know of your toiling neighbor,

His dull harsh task and his heavy need?

Your hands are spared from the dreary drudging

That labor's known since the world began,

Then who are you that you dare be judging

The dreams and hopes of your fellow man?

NEWS
FROM DIXONDIXON VICTORIOUS IN TWO GAMES LAST EVE
OVER STERLING GANGLocal Association Team
Surprised Everybody
with Swift Game.

(By Murphy)

Dixon Y. M. C. A. teams won both games of a double header with Sterling Y teams on the local floor last evening, the Intermediates downing the Sterling Intermediates 39-18 and the Dixon Y. M. C. A. defeating the Sterling Y. M. C. A. 44-17. The large score ran up by the Dixon Y was a surprise to them as well as to everybody else as a much closer game was expected, but Sterling was handicapped by the loss of a player or two and the Dixon boys demonstrated that they can play basket ball and are no slouches at it either. Sterling caged the first basket early in the first quarter during which time some of the fastest basket ball was pulled off that has ever been seen on the Y floor.

But the pace was too fast for both teams to maintain at express speed—though there wasn't a really slow minute during the entire playing time. Dixon led by two baskets at the end of the first quarter and in the second started to tear loose and by the time the whistle blew at the close of the first half were in the advance 28-4. The second session was more of an evenly matched contest both teams settling down to hard steady work, Dixon getting 16 points to Sterling 13. To pick stars would be a job we would hate to undertake as the boys were all in the game from start to finish, every one giving their best and playing the game of their lives.

the Lead.

The Straphangers lost their final game in the tournament in the Junior G gym class but beyond all possibility of a doubt they are on the top of the heap and think they are quite the berries. The Holligans were the boys who finally were able to upset the leaders but in the tournament to make any difference in the final standing. The score of this game was 12-8 with Capt. Glessner leading the scoring with 6 points, and Reagan, Lough and Hofmann each making 2. Bill Johnson did most of the heavy work for the Straphangers after Capt. Krug had worked the ball down to him. Bill gathered in 7 of the points.

WITH STERLING"Rubber" Game Will Be Played in Sterling
Next Wednesday.

The Dixon-Sterling Intermediate basket ball game was the third of a series that the boys have been playing, the first two were played at Sterling, Sterling winning the first and the second being tied 26-26. Although Sterling lost several of their original Intermediate players they had a good line up and gave the local boys a hard tussle for their money although Dixon lead during the entire game, and finally wound up with a 39-18 score.

At the end of the first session the score stood 22-6 but Sterling came back strong in the second half and played a better game holding the Dixon boys to a closer score. Wickey and Segner with their team play featured and Wickey and Capt. Bremer ran a close race for basket honors, Wickey getting 9 and Bremer 8. Next Wednesday evening these same two teams will meet again on the Dixon floor while the regular Y team goes to Sterling for a return game with the Y team.

The Four Horsemen
is Wonderful Picture

"The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," which is being shown for four days at the Lincoln theater, Sterling, and which closes its engagement this evening, is without doubt the greatest picture since "The Birth of a Nation." The fact that this picture ran all last summer at the LaSalle theatre, Chicago, at 2.50 top price is a sufficient guarantee of its merits. Anyone wishing to see the greatest picture of recent years should take advantage of the opportunity afforded and attend the Lincoln tonight.

XXII.

The same rifle shots that brought out dreams to Bill had a much more real meaning for Joe Robinson and Pete the Breed, the two Indians that were occupying Harold's cabin.

"Four shots," Pete said at last, "Lounsbury's signal."

"That means—big doings," Joe pronounced gravely. "We go."

Then they put on their snowshoes and mushed away.

There was no nervous waiting at the appointed meeting place—a spring a half-mile from Bill's cabin. Harold Lounsbury was already there.

A stranger to this land might have thought that Harold was drunk. Unfamiliar little fires glowed and glowed in his eyes, his features were drawn.

The breeds waited patiently for him to speak.

"Where's Sindy?" he asked at last.

"Over Buckshot's back—just where you said," Joe replied.

"Of course Buckshot took her back?" The Indians nodded. "Well, I'm going to let him keep her. I've got a white squaw now—and soon I'm going out with her to the Outside. But there's things to do first. Bill has found the mine."

The others nodded gravely.

"And Bill is as blind as a mole—got caught in a cabin full of green-wood smoke. He'll be able to see again in a day or two. So I sent for you right away."

The breeds nodded again, a trifleless phlegmatically.

"The mine's worth millions—more money than you can dream of. Each of you get a sixth—one-third divided between you. As soon as we've finished what I've planned, we'll tear down his claim notices and put up our own, then go down to the recorder and record the claim." Harold went on.

"Then it's ours. No one will ever guess. No one'll make any trouble."

"Both of you are to come to the cabin, just about dark. You'll tell me you have been over Bald Peak way and are hitting back toward the Yuga village."

"Bring along a quart of booze—maybe two quarts would be better. And sometime in the early evening give Bill what's coming to him."

"Do him off?" Joe asked stolidly.

"Make it look like a fight," Harold went on. "Insult him—better still, get in a quarrel among yourselves. He'll tell you to shut up, and one of you flame up at him. Then strike the life out of him before he knows what he's about. He's blind and he can't fight."

"What you want us to do?" Pete asked. "This?" He indicated the thin blade at his thigh. "Maybe use rifle?"

Harold's eyes looked drowsy when he answered. "Something like a lust sweat over him; this question of Pete's moved him in dark and evil ways. His father's blood was in the full ascendancy at last."

"There's an old pick in the cabin—Bill had it prospecting," he said.

XXIII.

Bill's eyes were considerably better when he awakened—full in the daylight. The warm wet cloths had taken part of the inflammation out of them, and when he strained to open the lids, he was aware of a little, dim gleam of light.

He couldn't make out objects, however, and except for a fleeting shadow he could not discern the hand that he swept before his face. Several days and, perhaps weeks would pass before the full strength of his sight returned.

His greatest hope at present was that he could grope his way about the cabin and build a fire for Virginia.

Building the fire, however, was a grievous task. He felt it incumbent upon him to move with utmost caution so that Virginia would not awaken. By groping about the walls he encountered the stove.

Feeling told him that hot coals were still glowing in the ashes. Then he fumbled about the floor for such fuel as Harold had provided.

He found a piece at last, and soon a cheery crackle told him that it had ignited. He grinned with delight. But his joy was a trifle premature. At that instant he tripped over a piece of firewood and his hands crashed against the logs.

"Oh, blast my clumsiness!" he whispered. Virginia stirred behind her curtain.

"Is that you, Harold?" she asked. She was wide awake.

"No. It's Bill."

"Well, what are you doing up? Did Harold—do you mean to say you built the fire yourself?"

"That's me, lady."

"Then you must have been right again—" The girl snatched aside the curtain and peered into his face.

"No such luck. Coals were still glowing; all I had to do was to put in a piece of firewood. But I'm all well otherwise, as far as I can tell. How about you?"

The girl stretched up her arms. "A little stiff—and now—I want you to tell me just how this blindness of yours—is going to affect our getting out."

It was a serious question. "I don't see how it can affect us a great deal," he answered. "I realize you don't know one step of the way down to Bradleyburg, and I can't see the way, but Harold knows it perfectly."

As if the invocation of his name were a magic summons, Harold opened the door and entered. He carried Bill's loud-mouthed rifle in the hollow of his arm.

"You've been hunting?" Virginia cried.

"Of course, I figured we needed meat. I carried Bill's rifle because I don't trust the sights of mine. They were a yard off that day I shot at the caribou."

"We—we mushin' over to Yuga—been over Bald Peak way," Joe said stumbingly. Don't know no one was here. We want to bunk here to night."

"You've got your own blankets?" "Yes. We got blankets."

"On your way home, eh? Well, I'll have to ask this lady."

Harold seemed strangely nervous as he turned to Virginia.

"A couple of Indians, going home toward the settlement on the Yuga," he explained quickly. "They've come from over toward Bald Peak and were counting on putting up here to night. That's the woods custom you know—to say at anybody's cabin. Do you think we can put 'em up?"

"Good Heavens, we can't send them on, on a night like this. It is awkward, though—about food—"

"They've likely got their own food."

"Of course they can stay. Bill can sleep on the floor in here—you can take the two of them with you into the little cabin. It will be pretty tight work, but we can't do anything else. Bring them in."

Harold turned again to the door, and in a moment the Indians strode, blinking, into the candlelight.

Virginia shot them a swift glance and was instinctively repelled; but at once she ascribed the evil savagery of their faces to racial traits.

Bill, sitting against the cabin wall, tried to make some sense out of a confused jumble of thoughts and impressions and memories that flooded in one wave to his mind.

He had assumed at once that the two breeds were Joe and Pete, whom he had encountered when he first found Harold. Why, then, had the latter made no sign of recognition?

He resolved to know the truth.

"It's Joe and Pete, isn't it?" he asked abruptly in the silence.

"Pete—Joe?" Joe answered at last, in a bewildered tone. "Don't know 'em. I'm Wolfpaw Black—he's Jimmy-Jimmy DuBois."

Except for a little lingering uncertainty, Bill was satisfied.

Virginia went on with her supper preparations, and at last the three of them drew chairs around their crude table.

The two breeds took their lunch from their packs and munched it, sitting beside the stove.

All at once Joe grunted in the stillness, and all except Bill whirled to look at him. He went to his pack and fumbled among the blankets. Then, a greedy light in his eyes, he put two dark bottles upon the table.

Virginia was suddenly deeply afraid. She looked at Bill, forgetting for the moment that in his blindness he could not see what was occurring and that in his helplessness she could incomprehensible that they should have made such an impression upon him.

"And for all that Bill hasn't got his sight back yet, we're going to start down tomorrow," Virginia went on in a gay voice. She glanced once at Bill, but she did not see the world of despair that came into his face at the delight with which she spoke.

"You and I will take turns pulling the sled. Bill will hang on to the gee-pole. And Bill says you know the no depend upon him in a crisis. She turned to Harold, hoping that he would refuse this offering at a word. And her fear increased when she saw the craving on his face.

"Have a drink!" Joe invited.

Bill started then, but he made no response. Harold moved toward the table.

"You're a life-saver, Wolfpaw," he replied, genially. "It's a cold night, and I don't care if I do. Virginia, pass down the cups."

New Move Against Newberry is Made

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Washington, Jan. 11.—A resolution declaring Truman H. EASTER COMES LATE
THIS YEAR, APR. 16;
TWO DOUBLE HOLIDAYS

Two "Fridays the 13th" in 1922; Other Data on Calendar.

The new 1922 calendars tempt on to turn all year search of dates of interest and to mark circles around such events as birthdays, when rent must be paid, dinner engagements, and other dates of particular importance.

Thus, Friday, the 13th, comes twice during the year, Easter and Thanksgiving come late, and several other holidays occur on Sunday—more grief for the school kiddies.

Aside from the first day of the month, falling on the first day of the week, and being the first day of the year, the second date in the new year to be watched—that is by the superstitious—is a week from tomorrow, Friday the 13th. There's another one in October. The next time Jan. 1 comes on Sunday will not be until 1934, and the last time it happened was in 1909.

Other holidays this year and the dates on which they fall are as follows:

McKinley's birthday, Jan. 23, comes on Sunday. Lee's birthday is Thursday, Jan. 19.

Mr. Groundhog wakes up Feb. 2, a Thursday.

Birthday of another great American—Lincoln—falls on Sunday, Feb. 12th.

PIMPLY? WELL, DON'T BE People Notice It. Drive Them
Off with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer if you get a package of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights.

Cleanse the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever cursed with a "dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition or pimply face.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result. Take one or two nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 15c and 30c.

but this will not disappoint school children, since seldom is this a school holiday, since seldom is this a school holiday. Washington's birthday falls on Wednesday of the following week, and Valentine's day will bring joy to the young and old Tuesday, Feb. 14.

Easter falls March, and leaves it with only one date to be remembered by many Americans, and that is Wednesday, March 15, when interest on the third Liberty loan falls due. Easter is very late this year, and does not come until April 16. Lent begins March 1.

One date among all dates that cannot be forgotten is April Fool's day. It's on Saturday that your shoe string is supposedly untied or an empty pocketbook shatters your hopes of a find.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 11.—Rebellion against the authority of President Frank Farrington of the Illinois Mine Workers was openly proclaimed here today by two Springfield locals.
